

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

OF

INTRODUCTORY.

The First Industrial Directory of Pennsylvania was published in the year 1914, the Second Edition in 1916, both of these publications being received with very great favor by the business interests of the Commonwealth.

It being necessary to collect the data contained in this the Third Edition, through the mails, we have solicited and in most instances received the co-operation of the Secretaries of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, throughout the State, together with Mayors of cities and Burgesses of the various boroughs, whose assistance has been material, in the compilation of the work and whose co-operation has been correspondingly appreciated.

The preliminary pages contain lists of State Officials and Heads of Departments, a Roster of the Department of Labor and Industry, together with the Industry and Production Code as used by the Production Division of the Bureau of Statistics and Information.

The Directory proper is divided into four parts, as follows:—

Part I. Industrial establishments classified by product, and alphabetically arranged, with lists of Coal Companies and Public Service Corporations.

Part II. Industrial establishments classified by counties, and alphabetically arranged by cities and towns, with a brief resume of the industrial resources of each county, and opportunities for industrial operations.

Part III. Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, Business Men's, Manufacturers' and Miscellaneous Associations, with location and names of officers.

Part IV. Labor Organizations, Officers and Unions.

A complete Index covering each subject or item of interest will be found in the final pages of the book.

ADAMS COUNTY.

The county of Adams was formed in the year 1800, from part of the county of York and at the last decennial census reported a population of 34,300. The principal center of population is the borough of Gettysburg, which is the county seat, having a population of approximately 5,000. A very small percentage of the population are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Western Maryland Railroad, and the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Companies. Its water supply is abundant, but natural gas is not found within the county. Its fuel is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields in other sections of the State.

Its natural resources are good farm lands, the county being largely an agricultural and fruit growing section. Its principal industries are farming, the manufacture of cigars, brick, furniture, etc., with other industrial activities.

Good industrial sites are available and inducements are offered to new industries.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Booster Club of Gettysburg, Penna.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

The county of Allegheny was formed in the year 1788, from parts of the counties of Westmoreland and Washington, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 1,018,463. The principal centers of population are the cities of Pittsburgh, Braddock, and McKeesport, with numerous boroughs and towns throughout the county, Pittsburgh being the county seat, and having a population of 600,000.

The county of Allegheny is one of the great industrial centers of the whole country, numerous large steel industries being found within its borders, together with almost every known industrial activity.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania lines east and west, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, the Wabash & Western Maryland Railroads, with other connections to all parts of the country. Its trolley facilities are principally afforded by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the West Penn Street Railway Company, with other lines traversing practically the whole county. Transportation to the west and south by water is afforded by means of the Ohio River.

Natural gas is supplied in abundance, and bituminous coal for fuel purposes is found within its own borders and in the nearby counties.

The natural resources of the county are coal, gas, oil, sand, gravel, clay, etc. Its principal industries are the great chemical, glass and steel industries, and coal mining.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce, the Commercial Club, the Allied Boards of Trade, the Real Estate Board, and Builders Exchange of the city of Pittsburgh, with similar organizations in the various boroughs, cities and towns throughout the county.

ARMSTRONG COUNTY.

The county of Armstrong was formed in the year 1800, from parts of the territory which at that time composed the counties of Allegheny, Westmoreland, and Lycoming, and at the last decennial census a population of 67,885 was reported.

The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Kittanning, Apollo, and Leechburg, Kittanning having a population of approximately 8,000, being the county seat.

The county is traversed by the Allegheny Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Pittsburgh & Shawmut Railroad, and the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad, these lines having connection north, south, east and west, having the same railroad tariffs as the Pittsburgh shipping district, with prospective shipping facilities by water on the Allegheny River. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the West Penn Traction Company.

Natural gas is supplied in abundance from fields operated throughout the county, and the same is piped from these fields to different parts of the State. Good fuel and steam coal is supplied from mines in operation along the lines of railroad mentioned above.

The natural resources consist of rich farm lands, coal, gas, oil, lime and sand stone, with an abundant supply of pure water.

Its natural advantages have not been fully developed, and free sites between the river and railroad are available for manufacturing purposes. The principal industries of the county are the manufacture of glass, brick, pig iron, and muck bar, oil well and drilling tools, mine car foundry works, sheet metal, woolen blankets, flour and feed, and pottery.

The principal commercial organizations are the Business Men's Associations of Apollo, Kittanning and Leechburg.

BEAVER COUNTY.

The county of Beaver, having a population of approximately 80,000 was formed in the year 1800, from the counties of Allegheny and Washington. The county seat is the borough of Beaver, with a population of approximately 4,000, the larger centers of population as reported, being the borough of Beaver Falls with a population of 14,000, and the borough of New Brighton with a population of 10,000.

The principal lines of railway are the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, and also in close proximity to the Ohio River, which is used extensively for purposes of transportation. The proposed ship canal, authorized by Act of Assembly, passes through this county.

Excellent trolley facilities are afforded by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler & New Castle Railway Company makes Pittsburgh, eastern Ohio, and the Ohio Valley easily accessible by this means of travel.

The Beaver River furnishes water supply for domestic use and for manufacturing purposes.

Natural gas is supplied from local territory, and fuel from deposits of coal which are found in the county.

The natural resources of the county are coal, gas, clay, and other minerals. The principal industries are the manufacture of brick, steel, structural iron, pottery, tile, china, sewer pipe, and various other products.

Inducements in the form of free lands in parts of the county are offered for manufacturing industries.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Chambers of Commerce at Beaver Falls and New Brighton.

BEDFORD COUNTY.

The county of Bedford was formed in the year 1771, from a part of the territory composing the county of Cumberland, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 38,879.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Huntingdon & Broad Top Railroad. No trolley facilities are reported.

Its principal centers of population are the towns of Bedford, which is the county seat, having a population of approximately 2,500, and the towns of Everett and Hyndman.

The town of Bedford is noted for its mineral springs, which are located in close proximity thereto. This noted resort is of national repute, and is visited annually by people from all sections of the country.

There are no navigable streams within the county, but its surface is well watered and drained by the Raystown branch of the Juniata River, and its several tributaries, an abundant supply of fuel being easily available from the various coal fields of the county.

Its natural resources are principally farm lands, coal, timber, fossil and hematite ores, the production of which has not been fully developed. Its principal industries are farming, mining, tanneries, fruit growing, the manufacture of fruit growing products, and the manufacture of candies and peanut products.

BERKS COUNTY.

Berks county was formed in the year 1752, from parts of the counties of Philadelphia, Chester, and Lancaster, and at the census of 1910 a population of 183,222 was reported. The principal center of population is the city of Reading, which is the county seat, having a population of approximately 110,000, with a number of prosperous boroughs throughout the county.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company, Pennsylvania Railroad Company and Schuylkill Navigation Company, affording excellent transportation facilities to all points. More than 40 miles of street railway lines traverse the city of Reading, and 84 miles of suburban lines afford communication with the various boroughs and towns throughout the county. Abundant supplies of water are found throughout the county, and its fuel is secured from the anthracite coal fields in close proximity, and the bituminous coal fields not far distant.

The natural resources of the county are farm lands, iron ore, and small quantities of timber. The industries of the county cover almost every manufactured product, including iron and steel, hosiery and knit goods, hats, foundry and machine shops, hardware, cigars and tobacco, railroad shops, etc.

Good industrial sites are available, and cooperation on the part of commercial organizations throughout the county is extended to new industries.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Chamber of Commerce in the city of Reading.

BLAIR COUNTY.

The county of Blair was formed in the year 1846, from parts of the counties of Huntingdon and Bedford, and reported at the last census a population of 108,858, which has been materially increased since that date. Its principal centers of population are the city of Altoona, and the boroughs of Tyrone, Bellwood, Martinsburg, and Hollidaysburg, the last named borough being the county seat.

The railroad facilities of the county are practically all afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and its branches. The Altoona and Logan Valley Railway Company affords trolley facilities, connecting several of the municipalities above mentioned. The water supply is secured principally from mountain streams. Natural gas is not found within the county, but is available for use in the city of Altoona and other municipalities, being piped from the West Virginia gas fields. An abundant supply of fuel is available, being secured from the bituminous coal fields in close proximity.

The natural resources of the county are limestone, ganister, sand, sand stone, clay, shale, and good farm lands. The principal industries are Pennsylvania Railroad shops, and terminals, the manufacture of bar iron, brick, lime, ballast, silk and silk goods, together with various other articles of commerce.

Inducements are offered to new industries, and manufacturing sites are available.

The leading commercial organizations are the Chambers of Commerce of the city of Altoona, and the boroughs of Bellwood, Tyrone and Hollidaysburg.

BRADFORD COUNTY.

The county of Bradford was formed in the year 1810, from parts of the counties of Luzerne and Lycoming, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 54,528. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Towanda and Sayre, Towanda being the county seat and having a population of approximately 5,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and the Susquehanna & New York Railroad, which forms connection with the Pennsylvania and Northern Central Railway systems, and its trolley facilities are afforded by the Waverly, Sayre & Athens Traction Company. The water supply is excellent, and is secured from springs within the county, and from the Susquehanna River, which flows through its boundaries.

Its natural resources are farm lands, mining, lumbering, etc. Its principal industries are silk mills, furniture factories, novelty works, glass factories, and the manufacture of other articles of commerce.

Good industrial sites are available, and inducements are offered to prospective industrial operations.

The leading commercial organization reported is the Business Men's Association of the borough of Towanda.

BUCKS COUNTY.

The county of Bucks, having a population of 76,530, as reported at the last decennial census, was one of the three original counties of the province of Pennsylvania, and was established in the year 1692. The county seat is the borough of Doylestown, Bristol being one of the larger centers of population.

The principal transportation facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Companies, and the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company's Canal. Its trolley facilities are excellent, affording means of access to the various municipalities within the county and to all the surrounding cities and towns. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is largely secured from rivers and canals, its fuel being secured from the anthracite coal fields in the eastern and northeastern part of the State.

The natural resources are farm lands, the county being populated by a large and thrifty farm population. Manufacturing is carried on to a considerable extent, the principal industries consisting of worsted and carpet mills, leather, wall paper, woodworking, cotton bleaching, iron foundries, stove and machine works, and various other industries.

Inducements are offered for manufacturing industries, desirable sites being available, and being in close proximity to the larger eastern markets, is an additional advantage.

The principal commercial organization is the Bristol Chamber of Commerce.

BUTLER COUNTY.

The county of Butler was formed in the year 1800, from part of the county of Allegheny, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 72,689. The principal center of population is the borough of Butler, which is the county seat, having a population of approximately 26,000, with a number of other progressive and prosperous boroughs throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Pittsburgh, Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad Company, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad Company, Western Allegheny Railroad Company, and the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway Company, Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler Street Railway Company, and Butler Street Railway Company afford excellent trolley service between Butler and Pittsburgh and the various towns throughout the county. Its water facilities are good. Natural gas is produced in abundance throughout the county, and its fuel supply is furnished by the coal fields in the western part of the State.

Its natural resources are coal, oil, gas, limestone, timber, clay, together with excellent farm lands throughout the county. Its principal industries are the production of oil and gas, the manufacture of cars and car wheels, oil well supplies, automobile tires, gas engines, glass, oil refineries, brick yards, and various other industrial enterprises.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Chambers of Commerce of Butler and Slippery Rock, the Business Men's Association of Butler, and the Butler and Mercer County Coal Operators Association.

CAMBRIA COUNTY.

Cambria county was formed in the year 1804 from parts of what at that time composed the counties of Huntingdon, Somerset and Bedford, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 166,131. The principal center of population is the city of Johnstown, with numerous boroughs throughout the county. The county seat is the borough of Ebensburg, with a population of approximately 2,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania system, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, and the New York Central Railroad Company, and its trolley facilities by the Northern Cambria Street Railway Company, the Johnstown Traction Company, and the Southern Cambria Railway Company, which afford transportation to the various boroughs and towns throughout the county. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is taken from various streams throughout the county, and from wells drilled for that purpose. Natural gas is not found within the county, but is supplied from the West Virginia fields, and being in the center of the great bituminous coal fields, fuel is supplied from the mines throughout the county.

The natural resources are coal, iron ore, flint and plastic clay, brick shale, limestone, building stone, concrete materials, and glass sand. Its principal industries are the steel industry and its by-products (the large plant of the Cambria Steel Company, employing thousands of men, being located at the city of Johnstown), coal mining, the manufacture of radiators, brick, silk, stoves, cut-glass, etc.

Industrial sites are available and every assistance is given to new industries, but no special inducements are offered.

The principal commercial organizations are the Chambers of Commerce of the city of Johnstown, Cresson, and Patton, and the Board of Trade of the borough of Barnesboro.

CARBON COUNTY.

The county of Carbon was formed in the year 1843, from parts of Northampton and Monroe counties, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 42,886. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Mauch Chunk, Weatherly and Lansford, Mauch Chunk being the county seat, and having a population of approximately 4,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the lines of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, Lehigh and New England Railroad and the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Canal. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Eastern Pennsylvania and the Carbon Transit Companies. Its water facilities are good, and its fuel supply is found in its own anthracite coal fields and those of the surrounding counties.

The natural resources of the county are anthracite coal, farm lands, sand, stone, etc. Its principal industries are coal mining, the manufacture of iron and steel, silk and silk goods.

Opportunities for manufacturing industries are afforded, and inducements are offered in the form of free manufacturing sites, and exemption from taxation for a period of years.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Boards of Trade in the several boroughs mentioned above.

CENTRE COUNTY.

The county of Centre was formed in the year 1800, from parts of the counties of Mifflin, Northumberland, Lycoming and Huntingdon, and at the census of 1910 reported a population of 43,424. Its principal centers of population are the boroughs of Bellefonte, Philipsburg and State College, Bellefonte being the county seat.

The principal railroads are the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad systems, the western end of the county being traversed by a trolley system centering in and about the borough of Philipsburg. The water facilities of the county are splendid, an abundant supply of pure water being supplied from springs and mountain streams. Natural gas is not found within the county, and an abundant supply of fuel is secured from the bituminous coal fields in the western section of the county, and from the anthracite fields not far distant.

The natural resources of the county are splendid farming section, coal and lime, large quantities of lime and crushed stone being produced in the county. Its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, the mining of coal, the manufacture of lime, crushed limestone, ballast, the manufacture of matches, together with various metal and other manufacturing industries.

Pennsylvania State College, one of the leading educational institutions of the State, with a student body of more than 3,000, situated in the borough of State College, offers exceptional educational advantages to residents of Pennsylvania, being a purely State institution, supported by the State of Pennsylvania and by the National Government.

The principal commercial organizations of the county are the Board of Trade of the borough of Bellefonte, and the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Philipsburg.

CHESTER COUNTY.

Chester county, having a population of 109,213, was one of the three original provinces of Pennsylvania formed in the year 1682, and is located in a rich agricultural section of the State. Its principal centers of population are the boroughs of West Chester, Spring City, Oxford, Downingtown, Kennett Square, Parkesburg, Phoenixville, and the city of Coatesville, West Chester being the county seat.

Railroad facilities are afforded largely through the Pennsylvania, and Philadelphia & Reading Railway systems, making the eastern markets easily accessible. The county is also traversed by numerous trolley lines which are authorized to carry freight, as well as passengers, affording connection with the main lines of the railroads mentioned and also making direct connection with the city of Philadelphia.

Water facilities for domestic and manufacturing purposes are good, and the supply abundant, the fuel supply being secured from both the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of the State.

The natural resources of the county are largely good farm lands, but manufacturing is carried on to a considerable extent in a number of towns in the county, the principal products being iron and steel, machinery, car wheels, tools, food products, and various other items of manufacture.

No special inducements are offered for manufacturing industries, but reputable concerns are able to secure satisfactory concessions, but the close proximity of the county to the eastern markets, together with the splendid transportation facilities afforded, makes this county particularly well adapted for industrial activities.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the borough of West Chester.

CLARION COUNTY.

Clarion county was formed in the year 1839, from the counties of Venango and Armstrong, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 36,838. Its principal centers of population are the towns of Clarion, which is the county seat, having a population of 3,500, and the boroughs of New Bethlehem and East Brady.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Lake Erie, Franklin & Clarion Railroad Company, and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Companies. No trolley facilities are reported. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is secured from the Clarion River, and the county being situated in the central gas belt, fuel is supplied from its own gas wells, and from the bituminous coal fields of the county.

Its natural resources are coal, oil, gas, fire clay, and lumber, but these have not been fully developed. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, manufacture of coke, the manufacture of glass, and other articles of commerce, the county affording ideal locations for small factories for the manufacture of brick and clay products.

The leading commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the borough of Clarion.

CLEARFIELD COUNTY.

The county of Clearfield was formed in the year 1804, from parts of the counties of Huntingdon and Lycoming, and at the last census reported a population of 93,768. The principal centers of population are the city of DuBois, with a population of approximately 15,000, and the borough of Clearfield, which is the county seat, having a population of approximately 8,000, with numerous other boroughs throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway, Buffalo & Susquehanna Railway, the Franklin & Clearfield Railway, and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad. The city and suburban trolley lines afford means of transportation in the city of DuBois and surrounding towns. The county's water facilities are unsurpassed and unlimited supplies of pure water are available for domestic and manufacturing purposes. Natural gas is furnished to the city of DuBois by the United Natural Gas Company, as the production of gas in the county is limited.

The natural resources of the county are coal, farm lands, fuel, clay, shale, and glass sand. The principal industries of the county are agriculture, railroad shops, shipping and mining of coal, the manufacture of brick, sewer pipe, glass, silk, and other articles of commerce.

The leading commercial organizations of the county are the Chambers of Commerce of the city of DuBois, and the borough of Clearfield, and the Board of Trade of the borough of Curwensville.

CLINTON COUNTY.

The county of Clinton was formed in the year 1839, from parts of the counties of Lycoming and Centre, and at the last census reported a population of 31,545. Its principal centers of population are the city of Lock Haven, and the borough of Renovo, Lock Haven being the county seat, and having a population of approximately 10,000.

The Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad systems provide railroad facilities, and the Susquehanna Traction Company affords trolley facilities in and about the city of Lock Haven and vicinity. Abundant supplies of pure water are available throughout the county, fuel being secured from the nearby bituminous coal fields.

The natural resources of the county are farm lands, fire clay, coal, etc. The principal industries of the county are agricultural pursuits, coal mining, the manufacture of paper, fire brick, leather, woven wire works, planing mills, railroad shops, silk and woolen mills.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Business Men's Associations of the city of Lock Haven, and of the boroughs of Renovo and Beech Creek.

COLUMBIA COUNTY.

Columbia county was formed in the year 1813, from a part of the county of Northumberland, and at the census of 1910 reported a population of 48,467. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Bloomsburg and Berwick, Bloomsburg being the county seat, and having a population of approximately 8,000.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, and the Pennsylvania Railroad systems afford transportation facilities, the trolley facilities being afforded by the North Branch Transit Company, which connects several of the boroughs and towns of the county. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes in the several boroughs and towns of the county is taken from Fishing Creek and the Susquehanna River, and its fuel supply is secured from the nearby coal fields.

The natural resources of the county are farm lands, coal, limestone, peat bogs, building stone, clay and sand deposits. Its principal industries are mining of coal, car shops, foundry and machine shops, brick plants, furniture factories, silk mills, hosiery mills, shirt factories and the manufacture of matches.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Business Men's Association of Berwick, and the Merchants Association of the borough of Bloomsburg.

CRAWFORD COUNTY.

The county of Crawford was formed in the year 1800, from a part of the county of Allegheny, and at the last census reported a population of 81,565. Its principal centers of population are the cities of Meadville, the county seat, with a population of approximately 13,000, and Titusville, sometimes called the queen city of the oil regions.

Its transportation facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania, and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad systems, affording outlets to all parts of the country. Electric railways, which traverse the county, carry freight and express business, affording this means of transportation to various points within and outside of the county.

Its natural resources are fertile farm lands, oil, and gas, this county being in the western oil belt, and one of the most productive counties of the Commonwealth. Its principal industries are the production of oil and gas, the manufacture of iron and steel, corsets, and silk goods.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade of the boroughs above mentioned, with similar organizations in other municipalities of the county.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The county of Cumberland was formed in the year 1750, from part of the county of Lancaster, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 54,479. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Carlisle, Mechanicsburg, New Cumberland and Shippensburg, with other enterprising boroughs and towns throughout the county. The borough of Carlisle, with a population of approximately 12,000, is the county seat.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company, a part of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, affording connections at Harrisburg with all sections of the country. Trolley facilities are afforded by the Valley Railways Company, Carlisle & Mt. Holly Railways Company, Cumberland Railways Company, and Chambersburg & Shippensburg Railways Company, all carrying both freight and passengers. A supply of good water for both domestic and manufacturing purposes is available, and the fuel supply of the county is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, Cumberland county lying about half-way between.

Its principal natural resources are farming and fruit sections, second to none in America. Additional natural resources are hematite and magnetic iron ores, with a slight sprinkling of manganese and copper ores. Abundant limestone for building and other purposes are supplemented by good flint rock quarries. Phosphorus and kaolin or white clay, are found in the southern part of the county. Glass sand and large quantities of undeveloped slate are found in the northern part of the county. The principal industries are the manufacture of railroad supplies, shoes, woolen and silk goods, hosiery, carpets, stained glass, furniture, paper boxes, and other articles of commerce.

Dickinson College, one of the oldest educational institutions of the State, and noted throughout the country, is located in the borough of Carlisle, and Irving College, one of the leading female colleges of the State, is located in the borough of Mechanicsburg.

The principal commercial organizations of the county are the Carlisle Chamber of Commerce, the Business Men's League of Mechanicsburg, and the Chamber of Commerce of Shippensburg.

DAUPHIN COUNTY.

The county of Dauphin was formed in the year 1785, from a part of the county of Lancaster, and in the year 1910 reported a population of 136,152. Its principal centers of population are the city of Harrisburg, and the borough of Steelton, with a number of large and prosperous boroughs and towns throughout the county. Harrisburg, the capital of the State, is the county seat, with a population of approximately 80,000. The capital city is located on the Susquehanna River, and is a central point on the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway companies.

Excellent trolley facilities are afforded in and about the city of Harrisburg and to the various boroughs and towns throughout the county. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available in abundance, and its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite coal fields of the county, and the bituminous coal fields not far distant.

Its natural resources are anthracite coal mines and a fertile farming section, and its principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, car building, boot and shoe factories, railroad shops, hosiery mills, cigar factories, together with many other industrial activities, among which is the great chocolate industry located in the town of Hershey.

Opportunities for new enterprises are good, splendid industrial sites being available, and in some instances inducements, in the way of capital are offered.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Harrisburg, and other commercial organizations in the various towns throughout the county.

DELAWARE COUNTY.

The county of Delaware was formed in the year 1789, from a part of the county of Chester, and at the last census reported a population of 117,906. Its principal center of population is the city of Chester, with a number of other boroughs throughout the county. Media, with a population of approximately 4,000, is the county seat.

Its transportation facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia & Reading Railway, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, together with steamship lines operating on the Delaware River. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Southern Pennsylvania Traction Company, the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, the Philadelphia & Western Railway Company, and the Philadelphia & West Chester Traction Company. These lines connect the various cities and town throughout the county and also to the city of Philadelphia. Its water facilities are good, and its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields in the northern and western sections of the State.

Its natural resources are principally farming, no other natural advantages being noted. The principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, ship building, textile, and the manufacture of various other articles of commerce.

Haverford and Swarthmore Colleges, both prominent educational institutions of the State, are located within the borders of the county. The county, being situated on the Delaware River, and in close proximity to Philadelphia, the great industrial center of the State, affords splendid advantages as to markets, both domestic and foreign.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, and the Business Men's Association of the city of Chester.

ELK COUNTY.

The county of Elk was formed in the year 1848, from parts of the counties of Jefferson, Clearfield and McKean, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 35,871. Its principal centers of population are the boroughs of Ridgway, Johnsonburg and St. Marys, Ridgway being the county seat, having a population of approximately 6,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad Company, affording outlets to all parts of the country. No trolley facilities are afforded. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available, and natural gas is found in abundance, the fuel supply being secured from the coal mines of the county.

Its natural resources are coal, gas, clay, and timber. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, fire clay, the production of natural gas, tanneries, silk mills, and the manufacture of machinery.

Inducements for manufacturing enterprises are offered in the form of free sites, capital, etc., and with an abundant supply of natural gas, cheap fuel creates favorable conditions for manufacturing activities, new industries being established within the county every year.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the borough of Ridgway.

ERIE COUNTY.

The territory comprising the county of Erie was originally a part of the county of Allegheny, Erie county having been incorporated as such in the year 1800, the last United States census returning a population of 115,517. The principal centers of population are the cities of Erie and Corry, and among the larger boroughs are Union City and North East.

Five steam railroad lines afford excellent transportation facilities, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, the Philadelphia & Erie, the Erie & Pittsburgh, the Nickel Plate, and the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad. Trolley facilities are excellent covering the greater portion of the county, and making Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland and Toledo accessible by this means of travel. Connections are available to Chautauqua and Jamestown in New York State, and Warren and Sheffield in this State, connecting lines to Detroit, Columbus and Cincinnati. Pittsburgh lies on another connecting line. Southward from Erie on still other connecting lines, are Meadville, Cambridge Springs and Edinboro, in Pennsylvania. These lines carry freight as well as passengers. Water facilities are exceptional. A landlocked harbor, four and one-half miles long, and one and one-half miles in width, making available transportation facilities reaching all points on the Great Lakes. Unlimited supplies of natural gas are available at reasonable rates. The principal fuel supply lies in the Pittsburgh bituminous district, and in the anthracite district of Pennsylvania. The county is well adapted for agricultural purposes, and in recent years wonderful development has been made in fruit raising, especially grapes, peaches, and other small fruits.

The principal industries are the manufacture of engines, boilers, pig iron, electrical apparatus, rubber goods, paper, brass, pipe-fittings, aluminum ware, and other articles of commerce.

The opportunities for new industries are splendid, as there have been very few failures among industrial concerns, unusual opportunities being presented for the location of small manufacturers, and their subsequent development, particularly in the metal industries, good industrial sites being available.

The leading commercial organizations are the Erie Board of Commerce, the Manufacturers' Association of Erie, and the Corry Board of Commerce and Industry, at Corry, Penna.

FAYETTE COUNTY.

The county of Fayette was formed in the year 1783, from a part of the county of Westmoreland, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 167,449. The principal center of population is the city of Uniontown, with other progressive and prosperous municipalities throughout the county.

Its transportation facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Pittsburgh, Virginia and Charlestown Railroad, and Monongahela River Railroad companies. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the West Penn Railways Company, having connecting lines to all parts of the county. Its water facilities for domestic purposes are fair. Natural gas is plentiful and supplied at low rates, fuel being secured from the various coal and gas fields of the county.

Its natural resources are principally coal and gas, the county being in the heart of the Pittsburgh coal field, and embracing the celebrated Connellsville coke region. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, and the manufacture of coke.

The commercial organizations reported are the Boards of Trade and the Business Men's Associations of the various towns throughout the county.

FOREST COUNTY.

The county of Forest was formed in the year 1848, from parts of the territory composing the counties of Jefferson and Venango, and having a population of 9,435, as reported at the last decennial census. The county seat is the borough of Tionesta, with an approximate population of 800.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Tionesta & Sheffield Railroad Company, and the Pittsburgh & Western Railroad Company. No trolley lines are found in the county. The water supply is abundant. Natural gas is produced and supplied from its own wells, and its fuel supply, consisting of wood and coal, being secured in the county, and in the nearby county of Clarion.

Its natural resources are lumber, oil, gas, clay, and shale for the manufacture of brick, and the principal industries are oil drilling, gas producing, the manufacture of lumber, mining, etc.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Tionesta and Marienville Boards of Trade.

FRANKLIN COUNTY.

The county of Franklin was incorporated in the year 1784, from part of the county of Cumberland, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 59,775. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Chambersburg and Waynesboro, Chambersburg being the county seat and having a population of approximately 12,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company, which extends from the city of Harrisburg, Penna., to Winchester, Virginia, a distance of about 116 miles. A branch of the Western Maryland Railroad, known as the Baltimore and Cumberland Valley Railroad Company, which extends into the town of Shippensburg, where it connects with the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, its route passing through both Chambersburg and Waynesboro. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Chambersburg, Greencastle & Waynesboro Street Railway Company, the Chambersburg & Gettysburg Electric Railway Company, and the Chambersburg & Shippensburg Railway Company, these lines affording splendid facilities for transportation of both passengers and freight. These roads radiate from the public square in the borough of Chambersburg.

The natural resources of the county are splendid farm lands, and its principal industries are farming, fruit growing, the manufacture of steam hammers, flour mill machinery, agricultural implements, engines, machinery of all kinds, furniture, woolen goods, hosiery, and other articles of commerce.

Good industrial sites are available, and inducements are offered to new industries.

The principal commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce of the borough of Chambersburg, and the Boards of Trade of the various towns and boroughs throughout the county.

FULTON COUNTY.

The county of Fulton was formed in the year 1850, from part of the county of Bedford, and at the last decennial census reported a population of approximately 10,000. This county is one of the smaller counties of the State, and its county seat is the borough of McConnellsburg.

No railroad or trolley facilities are reported, transportation facilities being afforded by automobile and bus lines, which carry both freight and passengers. Its water supply is abundant, and its fuel supply is secured from the nearby coal fields.

Its natural resources are good farm lands, manufacturing being carried on only to a limited extent, owing to lack of transportation facilities.

The principal commercial organization reported is the McConnellsburg Board of Trade.

GREENE COUNTY.

Greene county was formed in the year 1796, from a part of the county of Washington, and at the last census reported a population of 28,882. Waynesburg, the county seat, is the principal center of population, having a population of approximately 5,000.

Its railroad facilities are the Waynesburg & Washington Railroad Company, a part of the Pennsylvania system. No trolley facilities are reported. Its water-facilities are largely the several creeks throughout the county. Natural gas is produced in the county in large quantities, 800 productive wells being reported, the county supplying gas to the entire Monongahela Valley and to many towns as far east as Johnstown and as far west as Columbus, Ohio. The entire county is underlaid with three veins of bituminous coal, fuel being supplied in abundance from the various mines throughout the county.

Its natural resources are gas, oil, coal and farm lands, and its principal industries are farming, the mining of coal, production of oil and gas, and the manufacture of coke.

The leading commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the borough of Waynesburg.

HUNTINGDON COUNTY.

The county of Huntingdon was formed in the year 1787, from a part of the county of Bedford, and at the last census reported a population of 38,304. The principal center of population in the county is the borough of Huntingdon, which is the county seat, having a population of approximately 7,000, with a number of smaller boroughs and towns throughout the county.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Huntingdon & Broad Top Railroad Companies. The Huntingdon, Lewistown & Juniata Valley Traction Company is the only trolley line operating in the county. An unlimited supply of excellent water for both domestic and manufacturing purposes is available, fuel in the form of bituminous coal is close at hand, and excellent power facilities are furnished by dams on the Juniata River, electric current being manufactured by water power by this means and supplied to the various municipalities throughout that region.

The natural resources of the county are splendid farms, large deposits of gannister rock, and bituminous coal. The principal industries are coal mining, agricultural pursuits, the manufacture of blank books, paper, silk mills, sewer pipe, explosives, brick and concrete products.

The leading commercial organization of the county is the Chamber of Commerce of the borough of Huntingdon.

INDIANA COUNTY.

The county of Indiana was formed in the year 1803, from parts of the counties of Westmoreland and Lycoming, and in the year 1910 reported a population of 66,210, the population being materially increased since that time. The principal center of population is the borough of Indiana, which is the county seat, and having a population of approximately 7,000, with other prosperous boroughs throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, and the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad Companies, and its trolley facilities by the Indiana County Street Railway Company, having about 35 miles of track connecting various towns throughout the county. Its water facilities are good. Natural gas is found in abundance within the county, and good fuel is available from its own coal fields covering about 500,000 acres, and approximately one hundred operations are found within the county.

The natural resources of the county are coal, lumber, and farm lands. Its industries are diversified including the mining of coal, the manufacture of lumber, agricultural pursuits, the manufacture of glassware, foundry products, and other articles of commerce.

Industrial sites are available, and inducements are offered to manufacturing enterprises.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Indiana Chamber of Commerce, and the Boards of Trade of Blairsville and Homer City.

JEFFERSON COUNTY.

Jefferson county was formed in the year 1804, from part of the county of Lycoming, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 63,090. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Punxsutawney, Reynoldsville and Brookville, with other prosperous boroughs throughout the county. Brookville being the county seat, has a population of approximately 3,500.

JEFFERSON COUNTY—Continued.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, and the Pittsburgh, Shawmut & Northern Railroad Companies, whose lines traverse the county, and its trolley facilities by the Jefferson Traction Company, which connects a number of towns and boroughs of the county by this means of travel. Water facilities of the county appear to be good, and an abundant supply of natural gas is available, fuel being secured from the bituminous mines in operation throughout the county.

The natural resources are coal, gas, clay, sand, timber, and good farm lands. The principal industries are tanning, asbestos manufacturing, silk weaving, blast furnaces, glass manufacturing, and mining of coal.

The principal commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce, the Business Men's Association of Punxsutawney, the Business Men's Association of Reynoldsville, and the Community Club of the borough of Brookville.

JUNIATA COUNTY.

The county of Juniata was formed in the year 1831, from part of the county of Mifflin, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 15,013. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Mifflintown and Port Royal, with other boroughs throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Tuscarora Valley Railroad Companies, the latter company connecting with the Pennsylvania Railroad at Port Royal. No trolley facilities are reported within the county. An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available. The fuel supply of the county is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of the State.

Its natural resources are numerous valleys of fertile farms, and gannister rock in large quantities, not fully developed. Its principal industries are farming, fruit growing, railroad shops, the manufacture of carpets, hosiery, butter and cheese, together with other industrial activities.

Good industrial sites are available, but no special inducements are offered to manufacturing enterprises.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Business Men's Associations of Mifflintown, Mifflin and Port Royal.

LACKAWANNA COUNTY.

The county of Lackawanna is the most recently formed county in the State, having been incorporated in the year 1878, from a part of the county of Luzerne, and having made such rapid strides in growth, that at the last decennial census a population of 259,507 was reported, and at this time the population is approximately 400,000. Its principal centers of population are the cities of Scranton and Carbondale, Scranton being the county seat and reporting a population of 143,000, being one of the two second-class cities in the State.

The county has splendid railroad facilities, five steam railroads running through it, all passing through the city of Scranton. These roads are the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Delaware & Hudson, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Ontario & Western, and the Erie Railroad Companies. The Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad, the finest third rail system in the country, connects Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, the county seat of Luzerne, and has a spur running to Dunmore. The Scranton and Binghamton Railway, an interurban electric line, runs through the agricultural districts to the north of the city and will ultimately connect Scranton and Binghamton. The Scranton Railway Company has a network of trolley lines in and about the city of Scranton, connecting the various cities and towns throughout the county. An unlimited supply of water, unsurpassed in quality, is available for domestic and manufacturing purposes. There is an abundant supply of anthracite coal in the county at low rates for domestic as well as for manufacturing purposes.

The principal natural resources of the county is anthracite coal, but timber and farm lands are well developed. Its principal industries are coal mining, Scranton being the greatest coal mining city in the world, manufacture of hardware, stoves, furnaces, scales, screens, mining machinery, pumps, brass goods, aluminum ware, marine engines, extraction of carbon from anthracite coal, aniline dyes, silk machinery, silk goods, cotton and woolen goods, the manufacture of lace on an extensive scale, and the production of buttons in large quantities.

Good industrial sites are available, and the Scranton Board of Trade has command of more than a million dollars for investment in the securities of desirable manufacturing concerns.

The leading commercial organization is the Scranton Board of Trade, with similar organizations in other cities and boroughs throughout the county.

LANCASTER COUNTY.

The county of Lancaster was formed in the year 1729, from part of the county of Chester, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 167,029. The principal center of population is the city of Lancaster, which is the county seat, and having a population of 50,000, with other large and prosperous municipalities throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, and its trolley facilities are excellent, being furnished largely by the Conestoga Traction Company, which affords transportation by this means of travel to all sections of the county. Its fuel supply is secured from the bituminous and anthracite coal fields in other sections of the State.

Its natural resources are principally rich farm lands, this county being noted throughout the country for its many excellent and productive farms. Its principal industries are farming, the production of tobacco, together with a large number of manufacturing plants covering almost every manufactured product.

Franklin and Marshall College, one of the leading educational institutions of the State, is located in the city of Lancaster, and a State Normal School in the borough of Millersville. One of the notable institutions of the country, the Masonic Home of Pennsylvania, which promises eventually to become one of the greatest institutions of this kind in the world, is located at the borough of Elizabethtown, on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, the Manufacturers' Association of the city of Lancaster, the Merchants and Manufacturer's Association of Columbia, and the Business Men's Associations of Elizabethtown and Ephrata.

LAWRENCE COUNTY.

The county of Lawrence was formed in the year 1849, from parts of the counties of Beaver and Mercer, and at the last census reported a population of 70,031. The principal center of population is the city of New Castle, with an approximate population of 42,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad Company, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, Erie Railroad, and Western Allegheny Railroad Company, with splendid trolley facilities to Youngstown, and points west, Sharon, Butler, Beaver, Pittsburgh, and points south. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is taken from springs, wells and streams throughout the county. Natural gas is found within the county, and its fuel supply is secured from its own mines, and from nearby counties.

Its natural resources are farm lands, coal, gas, and limestone. Its principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, tin, cement, lime, agriculture, and the raising of live stock.

Good industrial sites are available, and inducements are offered to reliable persons in establishing new industries.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the city of New Castle.

LEBANON COUNTY.

The county of Lebanon was formed in the year 1813, from parts of the counties of Dauphin and Lancaster, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 60,000. Its principal center of population is the city of Lebanon, with numerous progressive and prosperous boroughs throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, affording communication with the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Conewago, and its trolley facilities by the various electric railway companies in and about the city of Lebanon, and connecting the various boroughs and towns throughout the county, these lines carrying both freight and passengers.

The natural resources of the county are fertile farm lands, iron ore, limestone, and sand stone. Its principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, chains, boots and shoes, hosiery, cigars, knit goods, silks, and novelties.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Chamber of Commerce of Lebanon, and Business Men's Association of Lebanon, Penna., similar organizations being found in the larger boroughs and towns of the county.

LEHIGH COUNTY.

The county of Lehigh was formed in the year 1812, from part of the county of Northampton, and at the last census reported a population of 118,832. Its principal center of population is the city of Allentown, with a population of approximately 70,000, with numerous boroughs located throughout the county.

LEHIGH COUNTY—Continued.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, Central Railroad of New Jersey, and the Perkiomen Railroad, a part of the Pennsylvania system, and its trolley facilities by the Lehigh Valley Transit Company, by means of which all the principal cities and towns in the eastern part of the State may be reached. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is supplied from the various springs and streams throughout the county, and its fuel supply from the anthracite coal fields in nearby counties.

The natural resources are farm lands, iron ore, slate, and cement deposits. The principal industries are the manufacture of silk, cigars, furniture, iron work, machinery, slate and cement in large quantities, this county excelling in the production of slate and cement.

The principal commercial organization mentioned is the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Allentown.

LUZERNE COUNTY.

The county of Luzerne was formed in the year 1786, from part of the county of Northumberland, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 342,186. Its principal centers of population are the cities of Wilkes-Barre, with a population of approximately 80,000, and the cities of Hazleton and Pittston, Wilkes-Barre being the county seat, with numerous boroughs and towns throughout the county.

Its principal railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley Railroad, Delaware & Hudson Railroad, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, and the Lackawanna & Wyoming Valley Railroad Companies. Excellent trolley facilities are afforded by the various electric railways which traverse practically the whole county. Its water facilities are first class, water being supplied for domestic and manufacturing purposes at the average rates, and its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite mines within the borders of the county.

The natural resources are principally anthracite coal, the coal mines of the Wyoming Valley being regarded as among the best in the State. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, manufacture of hosiery and knit goods, silk, machinery, automobile tops, mine screens, mine drills, sheet metal, shoes and various other articles of commerce.

Inducements are offered for manufacturing enterprises by the Greater Wilkes-Barre Chamber of Commerce. Excellent factory sites are available.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Greater Wilkes-Barre Chamber of Commerce, Hazleton Chamber of Commerce, Pittston Merchants Association, with similar organizations throughout the county.

LYCOMING COUNTY.

The county of Lycoming, one of the original counties of the State, was formed in the year 1795, from a part of the territory then composing the county of Northumberland, and at the last census the population was approximately 81,000. Its principal centers of population are the city of Williamsport, and the boroughs of Jersey Shore and Muncy, Williamsport being the county seat.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad system, New York Central Railroad system, Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Susquehanna & New York Railroad, affording transportation facilities in all directions. Good trolley facilities are afforded in and about the city of Williamsport, by the Williamsport Passenger Railway Company, and the Montoursville Passenger Railway Company.

The borough of Jersey Shore, located on the New York Central system, is connected with the Pennsylvania by the Antes-Fort Railroad Company, an electric railway.

An abundant supply of good water is available in all parts of the county, but natural gas is not found in the county, fuel being secured from both the anthracite and the bituminous coal fields, either of which is easy of access.

The natural resources of the county are largely agricultural, but manufacturing is carried on to a considerable extent in the larger centers of population. The principal industries are the manufacture of furniture and other woodwork, iron and steel manufacture, the manufacture of shoes, rubber goods, silks, woolen goods and novelties.

Banks are liberal toward established manufacturers, and assist them in expanding their enterprises. Substantial industries can secure financial assistance through the Board of Trade, and many available sites are offered for manufacturing purposes.

Dickinson Seminary, one of the prosperous preparatory educational institutions of the State, is located in the city of Williamsport, and offers exceptional opportunities in advanced courses along many lines of educational interest, and the public schools of the county are of a high standard.

The leading commercial organizations are the Board of Trade, the Business Men's Association, the Williamsport Improvement Company, and the Associated Manufacturers, all of the city of Williamsport.

McKEAN COUNTY.

The county of McKean was formed in the year 1804, from part of the county of Lycoming, and in the census of 1910 reported a population of 47,863. The principal centers of population are the city of Bradford and the borough of Kane. The county seat is Smethport, with a population of approximately 2,000.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, and the Erie Railroad. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Western New York and Pennsylvania Traction Company. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is found in abundance, and its fuel supply is secured from its own gas wells and the coal fields of nearby counties.

Its natural resources are oil, gas, stone, and fire clay, with an apparently inexhaustible deposit of shale, from which a very high grade of brick and paving blocks are made. The principal industries are the manufacture of engines, pipe couplings, cutlery, drilling tools, wood acid, alcholid, brick, paving blocks, and the manufacture of silk and silk goods.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Bradford Business Men's Association, and the Board of Commerce and Business Men's Association of Kane and Port Allegany.

MERCER COUNTY.

The county of Mercer, having a population at the last decennial census of 77,699, was formed in the year 1800, being originally a part of the county of Allegheny. Its principal centers of population are the towns of Farrell, Sharon, Greenville, Mercer, and Grove City, the borough of Mercer being the county seat.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad, and the New York Central Railroad systems. Its trolley facilities are confined to cities and towns in the western part of the county. Natural gas is produced in the county, and its fuel supply from its own wells, and coal fields afford an abundant supply of fuel for domestic and manufacturing purposes.

The natural resources are coal, oil, gas, limestone, building stone, and timber, also fine farming land, especially adapted to the dairy business. Its principal manufacturing industries are the manufacture of stoves, iron and steel, silk products, cars, structural iron, and other articles of commerce.

The principal commercial organizations are not reported, except Boards of Trade in the towns of Greenville and Mercer.

MIFFLIN COUNTY.

The county of Mifflin was formed in the year 1789, from parts of the counties of Cumberland and Northumberland, and at the last census reported a population of 27,885. Its principal center of population is the borough of Lewistown, which is the county seat, and having a population of approximately 10,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania system, and the Lewistown & Reedsville Electric Railway Company affords trolley facilities in the borough of Lewistown and to surrounding towns.

An abundant supply of pure water is furnished for domestic and manufacturing purposes, and its fuel supply is secured from both the anthracite and bituminous coal fields, either of which is of easy access.

The natural resources of the county are farm lands, white sand, shale, ganister rock, and limestone. Its principal industries are agriculture, the manufacture of iron and steel, and various other metal products, silk mills, and knitting mills.

Good industrial sites are available, and reasonable inducements are offered to manufacturing enterprises, also industrial advantages and opportunities which give desirable openings to intended investors.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Business Men's Association and the Board of Trade of the borough of Lewistown.

MONROE COUNTY.

This county, having a population of 22,941, was formed in the year 1836, from parts of the counties of Northampton and Pike. Its county seat is the borough of Stroudsburg, with a population of approximately 6,000, being the principal center of population in the county.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, Pennsylvania, Erie & Delaware Valley Railroad, and the Wilkes-Barre & Eastern Railroads, affording excellent train service between Stroudsburg, New York and Philadelphia. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Stroudsburg Passenger Railway Company, and Stroudsburg Water Gap, and Portland Street Railway Company.

There are no navigable streams in the county, but a good supply of mountain water is available. An abundant supply of fuel is available from the anthracite coal mines at Scranton and vicinity, about fifty miles distant.

The natural resources of the county are principally farming, timber and water power, and its principal industries are car shops, iron foundries, wood manufacturing, woolen and silk mills.

Many industrial sites are available, located along the lines of railroads in such a manner as to make railroad shipping facilities very excellent.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Stroudsburg Industrial Club, and the Board of Trade of the Borough of East Stroudsburg.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

The county of Montgomery was formed in the year 1784, from a part of the county of Philadelphia, and at the decennial census of 1910 reported a population of 169,570. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Norristown and Pottstown, with numerous other prosperous and progressive municipalities throughout the county. Norristown, with a population of approximately 28,000, is the county seat.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway systems, and practically the whole county is traversed by electric railways, affording transportation facilities to the city of Philadelphia, and to the various cities and towns in the eastern part of the State. An abundant supply of pure water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is found throughout the county, its fuel supply being secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of the State.

Its natural resources are rich farm lands, limestone, shale, and clay. Its principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, brick, asbestos products, rubber goods, stoves and ranges, hosiery and knit goods, and various other articles of commerce.

The principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade, and the Chambers of Commerce of the various boroughs and towns throughout the county.

MONTOUR COUNTY.

The county of Montour was formed in the year 1850, from part of the county of Columbia, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 14,868. The principal center of population is the borough of Danville, which is the county seat, and having a population of approximately 10,000.

Its railroad facilities are exceptional, being located on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Companies, affording transportation facilities to all parts of the county. Two trolley lines are found within the county, one purely local in and about the borough of Danville, and the other connecting the various towns and boroughs along the north branch of the Susquehanna River.

Its water facilities are good, and its fuel is secured from the anthracite mines in the nearby counties.

Its natural resources are splendid, being one of Pennsylvania's richest agricultural sections. Iron ore, a low grade, is also produced. Its principal industries are the manufacture of iron, silk throwing, hosiery and knit goods.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Board of Trade, and Business Men's Association of the borough of Danville.

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY.

The county of Northampton was formed in the year 1752, from a part of the county of Bucks, and at the last census reported a population of 127,667. The principal centers of population are the cities of Easton and Bethlehem, and the borough of Bangor, with other boroughs and towns throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the New Jersey Central Railroad, Lehigh Valley Railroad, and on subsidiary lines of the Pennsylvania, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and four small local lines. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Lehigh Valley Transit, Northampton Traction Company and Philadelphia and Easton Electric Railway Company, affording transportation to all parts of the county, and to the city of Philadelphia.

Its water facilities are unusually fine, two good sized navigable streams, the Delaware and the Lehigh Rivers, the Bushkill Creek, and canal transportation to Mauch Chunk and Philadelphia.

The natural resources of the county are cement, slate, iron ores, oxides, limestone, soap stone, brick, clay, sand, etc. The principal industries are the manufacturing of mining machinery, railroad machinery, castings, and all iron and steel products generally, silks in every department, hosiery, underwear, pianos, flags, and other articles of commerce.

Industrial advantages are offered in the form of good industrial sites and guaranty fund. The principal commercial organizations reported are the Chambers of Commerce of Bangor, d Bethlehem, and the Board of Trade of Easton.

NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The county of Northumberland was formed in the year 1782, from parts of the counties of Berks, Bedford, Cumberland, Lancaster and Northampton, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 111,420. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Milton and Northumberland, Sunbury being the county seat, and having a population of approximately 14,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania system, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Companies, and its trolley facilities by a number of companies operating in the larger boroughs and towns of the county. An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available, and its fuel supply is secured largely from the anthracite coal fields within the boundaries of the county.

Its natural resources are rich farm lands, anthracite coal, shale and limestone. Its principal industries are agricultural, mining, car shops, silk mills, iron and steel, and the manufacture of various articles of commerce.

Its principal commercial organizations reported are the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of the various boroughs and towns throughout the county.

PERRY COUNTY.

The county of Perry was formed in the year 1820, from part of the county of Cumberland, and at the census of 1910 reported a population of 24,936. Its principal centers of population are the boroughs of Newport, Duncannon, New Bloomfield and Marysville, New Bloomfield being the county seat.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with other branch roads to different parts of the county. The only trolley facility reported in the county is in the borough of Marysville, which affords connection by this means of travel at the city of Harrisburg with other lines to various towns throughout the section, and with the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, which affords communications with the northeastern and eastern parts of the State.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is found in abundance, and its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields in other sections of the State.

Its principal natural resource is rich farm lands, and its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, the manufacture of iron and steel, tanneries, extract works, lumbering, hosiery mills, etc.

The principal commercial organizations are the Business Men's Club, and the Municipal League of Newport.

PHILADELPHIA COUNTY.

The county of Philadelphia was formed in the year 1682, and was one of the three original provinces of Pennsylvania, and at the census of 1910 a population of 1,549,000 was reported. The city of Philadelphia is co-extensive with the county, and is the third largest city in the United States.

All the principal railroads of the eastern part of the country center in the city of Philadelphia, and the whole county is practically covered by electric railways, which also afford connection with the numerous cities and towns in the surrounding counties. Transportation by water is afforded by means of the Delaware River, which affords an outlet to all parts of the world, Philadelphia being one of the principal ports of entry in the United States.

Its water supply is secured from the Delaware River, and extensive filtration plants have been erected in recent years, affording an abundant supply of good water for the whole city.

Its principal industries are the manufacture of textiles, carpets, locomotives, and almost every known article of commerce.

Numerous commercial organizations are found within the county, among the principal ones being the Bourse, and the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

PIKE COUNTY.

The county of Pike, having a population of 8,033, was formed in the year 1814, from a part of the territory composing the county of Wayne. The county seat, which is the principal center of population, is the town of Milford, with a population of approximately 1,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Erie Railroad. No trolley facilities are reported, but auto trucks and busses, carrying both passenger and freight, run to Port Jervis, N. Y., on the line of the Erie Railroad.

Excellent supplies of spring water, unlimited in quantity, are available, and fuel is supplied from woodlands and the anthracite fields in that section of the State.

The natural resources of the county are principally timber and bluestone, and the principal industries are the manufacture of lumber, and food products.

Good industrial sites are available, a number of undeveloped water power sites being found in the county, which might be utilized for industrial purposes. The material progress of the county is retarded largely by lack of transportation facilities, which will be remedied to a great extent when the contemplated trolley roads have been completed.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Business Men's Association of the borough of Milford.

POTTER COUNTY.

The county of Potter was formed in the year 1804, from part of the county of Lycoming, and at the last census reported a population of approximately 30,000. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Coudersport and Austin, Coudersport being the county seat and having a population of 3,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by connections with the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad, Pennsylvania Railroad, and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Companies. No trolley facilities are reported. Its water facilities are excellent, and an abundant supply of natural gas is found in the county, its fuel supply being secured from the coal fields in nearby counties.

Its natural resources are its forest and farm lands, but these resources have not been fully developed. Its principal industries are farming, lumber manufacturing, metal working, hosiery and knit goods, glass bottles, and the manufacture of leather.

Good industrial sites are available, but no special inducements are offered to new industries. The principal commercial organizations reported are the Chambers of Commerce of the boroughs of Coudersport and Galeton.

SCHUYLKILL COUNTY.

The county of Schuylkill was formed in the year 1811, from parts of the counties of Berks and Northampton, and at the last census reported a population of 207,894. Its principal city of population is the city of Pottsville, with several large boroughs throughout the county.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Lehigh Valley Railroad, offer splendid railroad facilities and connections with the eastern markets. Its facilities are afforded by the Eastern Pennsylvania Railways Company. Water facilities are good, and fuel is obtained from the anthracite coal fields within the county.

The principal industries are mining of coal, railroad shops, hosiery and knit goods, boots and shoes, iron and steel industries, wood working plants, leather manufacturing and the manufacture of silk goods.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Merchants Association and Chamber of Commerce of the city of Pottsville, and the Business Men's Association of the borough of Ashland.

SNYDER COUNTY.

Snyder county, having a population of 16,800, was formed in the year 1855, from a part of the territory then composing the county of Union. Its county seat is Middleburg, having a population of approximately 2,000, with other towns and boroughs throughout the county.

At the borough of Selinsgrove is located Susquehanna University, one of the principal educational institutions of the central part of the State.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, and a four mile trolley line connecting the borough of Selinsgrove with the borough of Sunbury, in Northumberland county. Its water facilities are good, having large quantities of the best water for domestic and manufacturing purposes, and its fuel supply is secured from the nearby anthracite coal fields, and from the bituminous coal fields not more than seventy-five to one hundred miles distant.

The natural resources are fertile farm lands, and fruit raising is carried on to a considerable extent, large quantities of small fruits, peaches, and apples, being shipped from this section. The manufacturing industries are tanning, brick manufacture, shoe and silk manufacturing.

The leading commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade of the boroughs of Middleburg and Selinsgrove.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

The county of Somerset was formed in the year 1795, from part of what at that time was the county of Bedford, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 67,717. The principal centers of population are the towns of Windber, Meyersdale and Somerset, which is the county seat.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Western Maryland Railroad, and the Pennsylvania Railroad systems, and its trolley facilities by the Pennsylvania & Maryland Electric Railway Company, and the Johnstown Traction Company.

Excellent water facilities are found throughout the county, and many small streams furnish an abundant supply of water for domestic and manufacturing purposes, its fuel being supplied from its own mines throughout the county.

The natural resources of the county are coal and lumber, the county of Somerset being one of the largest bituminous coal fields of the State. Its principal industries are the mining and shipping of coal, manufacture of coke, together with its by-products, planing mill products, iron foundries, etc.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Boards of Trade of Berlin, Rockwood, Salisbury, Boswell and Windber, and the Chamber of Commerce of Somerset, together with the Boosters Club of Meyersdale.

SULLIVAN COUNTY.

Sullivan county was formed in the year 1847, from a part of the county of Lycoming, and at the last census reported a population of 11,293. The county seat is the borough of Laporte, with other small towns throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, Williamsport & North Branch Railroad Company, Susquehanna & New York Railroad Company, and Eagles Mere Railroad Company. The Williamsport & North Branch Railroad forms a connection with the Philadelphia & Reading Railway system. No trolley roads are reported. Water is supplied from wells, springs, and mountain streams, and its fuel supply is secured from its own semi-anthracite coal fields.

Its natural resources are coal, timber and tillable soil, and its principal industries are coal mining, farming, lumbering, and tanning leather. Good industrial sites are available, but no special inducements are offered for new industries. With abundant supplies of fuel, lumber, etc., it appears that advantageous conditions exist for manufacturing enterprises along lines mentioned.

SUSQUEHANNA COUNTY.

The county of Susquehanna was incorporated in the year 1810, from part of the county of Luzerne, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 37,743. The principal center of population is Montrose, which is the county seat, reporting a population of 2,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, Lehigh Valley Railroad, Erie Railroad and Delaware & Hudson Railroad Companies. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Scranton & Binghamton Railway Company, and Carbondale Traction Company. Its water facilities are good, and fuel is supplied from the nearby anthracite coal fields.

Its natural resources are good farm lands, coal and timber, but its resources are not fully developed. Its principal industries are the manufacture of lumber, machinery, cut glass, furniture and farming.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Montrose, Uniondale and Hallstead Boards of Trade.

TIOGA COUNTY.

The county of Tioga was formed in the year 1804, from a part of the county of Lycoming, and reported at the last decennial census a population of 42,829. Its principal centers of population are the boroughs of Wellsboro and Blossburg, Wellsboro being the county seat, and having a population of approximately 3,500.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Erie, Buffalo & Susquehanna, and New York Central Railroad Companies, but no trolley facilities are reported.

An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available, and the fuel supply of the county is abundant, being secured from its own coal fields, the coal mines being recognized as above the average for steam purposes.

The natural resources of the county are coal, clay, and farm lands, but these resources have not been fully developed. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, agricultural pursuits, tanning, milk condensing, glass manufacturing, and shirt factories.

Opportunities for new business are very good, and industrial sites are available, the land and buildings in some instances being given for manufacturing purposes. Excellent opportunities are offered to manufacturing enterprises employing female labor.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the borough of Wellsboro.

UNION COUNTY.

The county of Union, having a population of 16,249, was formed in the year 1813, and was originally a part of the territory composing the county of Northumberland. The county seat is the borough of Lewisburg, with an approximate population of 3,300, which with the borough of Mifflinburg, comprise the principal centers of population in the county.

UNION COUNTY—Continued.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, affording an outlet both east and west, and its trolley facilities by the Lewisburg, Milton & Watsonstown Street Railway Company.

An abundant supply of good mountain water is available, and fuel is furnished largely from the anthracite fields in the nearby counties.

Its natural resources are good farm lands, the county being noted for its splendid agricultural territory, its valleys being among the most fertile in the Commonwealth.

Manufacturing enterprises to a limited extent are carried on in the boroughs of Lewisburg and Mifflinburg, the principal products being chairs, hosiery and knit goods, wagons, buggies, and automobile bodies.

Bucknell University, located at Lewisburg, is one of the principal educational institutions of the State, and the public schools are up to the general standard.

No special inducements are offered to manufacturing enterprises, but every encouragement is given by the Mifflinburg Board of Trade, the principal commercial organization reported.

VENANGO COUNTY.

The county of Venango was formed in the year 1800, from parts of the counties of Allegheny and Lycoming, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 56,359. The principal centers of population are the cities of Franklin and Oil City, the city of Franklin being the county seat, having a population of approximately 12,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad system, Erie Railroad Company, New York Central Railroad Company, and the Lake Erie, Franklin & Clarion Railroad Company. Electric railways afford means of travel locally in and about the various cities and boroughs of the county. An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is found within the county, and natural gas in abundance. Its fuel supply other than gas, is secured largely from the bituminous coal fields, in the western part of the State.

Its natural resources are a rich farming country, oil and gas. Its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, the production of oil and gas, the manufacture of iron and steel, oil refining, manufacture of oil well supplies, etc.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the city of Franklin.

WARREN COUNTY.

The county of Warren was formed in the year 1800, from parts of the counties of Allegheny and Lycoming, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 39,573. Its principal center of population is the borough of Warren, which is the county seat, having a population of 11,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded largely by the Philadelphia & Erie, and the New York Central Railroads, and its trolley facilities by the Warren-Jamestown Street Railway Company. An abundant supply of good water is available, and natural gas is found within the county. Its fuel supply, other than gas, is secured largely from the bituminous coal fields in the western part of the State.

Its natural resources are a rich farming community, oil, and gas. Its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, production of oil and gas, manufacture of iron and steel, cars, castings, automobile parts, furniture, and other articles of commerce.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Business Men's Association, and the Chamber of Commerce of the borough of Warren.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

The county of Washington was formed in the year 1781, from part of the county of Westmoreland, and at the last census reported a population of 143,680. The principal center of population is the borough of Washington, with approximately 25,000 inhabitants.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad system, New York Central and Pennsylvania systems, and the Monongahela River. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and the Westside Electric Street Railway Company. Its water supply is secured from springs, wells, and streams. Natural gas is found in abundance and supplied at low rates. Soft coal is supplied by the numerous bituminous mines in the county.

Its natural resources are coal, gas, oil, and farm lands. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, production of oil and gas, the manufacture of clay products, chemicals, glass, steel and tin plate.

Opportunities for new industrial enterprises are excellent, and good sites are available, inducements being offered in some instances.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Boards of Trade of the boroughs of Washington, Charleroi, Donora, and Canonsburg, and the Chamber of Commerce of Monongahela.

WAYNE COUNTY.

The county of Wayne was incorporated in the year 1793, from a part of the territory which was then the county of Northampton, and had at the last census a population of approximately 30,000. The principal center of population is the town of Honesdale, the county seat, which has a population of approximately 3,000.

Its railroad facilities are the Delaware & Hudson, Erie, and Ontario & Western Railroad Companies, no trolley facilities being reported. Its water facilities are exceptionally good, being supplied by pure mountain streams and lakes, and its fuel is secured from the anthracite regions in close proximity.

Its natural resources are water power, developed and possible of development, and a good agricultural section. Its principal industries are farming, manufacture of silk, cut glass, lumber, woollen goods, and shoes.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Business Men's Association, and the Board of Trade of the borough of Honesdale.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY.

The county of Westmoreland was formed in the year 1773, from part of the county of Bedford, and in 1785 part of the purchase of 1784 was added thereto. At the last decennial census the county reported a population of 241,304. Its principal centers of population are the city of Greensburg, and the boroughs of Monessen and New Kensington, Greensburg being the county seat, with a population of approximately 15,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania, and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Companies, and its trolley facilities by the West Penn Railways system, affording excellent facilities by this means of travel to all parts of the county. Natural gas is supplied to the various towns throughout the county and fuel in the form of bituminous coal is supplied from the various coal fields of the county.

The natural resources are coal in an almost unlimited quantity, natural gas, and good farm lands. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, manufacture of aluminum products, brass and iron valves and fittings, steel construction, high tension insulators, tin plate, railroad equipment, white lead, and iron and steel products.

Good industrial sites are available, and every fair inducement is offered for location of manufacturing plants.

Its principal commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the city of Greensburg.

WYOMING COUNTY.

The county of Wyoming, having a population of 15,509, was formed in the year 1842, from a part of the territory of what was originally the county of Luzerne. The county seat is Tunkhannock, which is the principal center of population having approximately 2,500 inhabitants.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company which traverses the county, and its trolley facilities by the Scranton & Binghamton Railway Company. An abundant supply of water is available, and fuel is obtained from the anthracite coal fields of the nearby counties.

Its natural resources are farm lands, and a limited amount of timber. Its principal industries are farming, woolen mills, tanneries, and other small manufacturing industries being found in the county.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Boards of Trade of the boroughs of Meshoppen, Nicholson and Tunkhannock.

YORK COUNTY.

The county of York was formed in the year 1749, from a part of the county of Lancaster, and at the last decennial census reported a population of approximately 140,000. The principal center of population is the city of York, which is the county seat, having a population of approximately 55,000, with numerous other large and prosperous municipalities throughout the county.

Its railroad facilities are exceptionally good, the county being traversed by the Northern Central Railway (part of the great Pennsylvania Railroad system), while another branch of this system affords connection with Philadelphia and the east. The Western Maryland Railroad and part of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad systems traverse the county and afford access to the great slate quarries of southern Pennsylvania, as well as furnishing another route to the city of Baltimore. Trolley facilities are afforded by the York Railways Company, whose lines traverse the city of York, and afford communication with distant points throughout the county, having in operation ninety miles of track, twenty in the city of York, and seventy along suburban lines. Water facilities cannot be excelled, but natural gas is not found within the county, electric light, heat and power being supplied at normal rates by the famous York Haven Power plant, which is located within the bounds of the county. Its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of the State.

The natural resources of the county are excellent farm lands, limestone, sand, trap rock, clay, etc., and its principal industries are the manufacture of automobiles, cigars, boots and shoes, machinery, cars, engines, and other articles of commerce.

The principal commercial organizations are the York Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturer's Association of the city of York, with similar organizations in the numerous towns and boroughs throughout the county.
